

Julie has always been interested in politics. When she moved to Utah Julie attended her first Caucus meeting, she was immediately engaged.

Julie has served as both a state and county delegate, a Precinct Chair, County Precinct Vice Chair for the Republican party.

Beginning in 2012 with HB88, she has been active on Capitol Hill as a citizen activist fighting for children's' rights.

Julie has been involved in the North Ogden City community for many years. She was a key figure in starting the petition to prevent the public works from being built in Barker Park.

Julie was instrumental in ensuring that the Rice Creek Cove Subdivision, maintained the integrity of the area.

Currently she is working with Three Fountains Condos residents to ensure their quality of lifestyle is protected as the Maverick gas station is constructed.

She has also attended North Ogden city council and planning commission meetings during her years as a North Ogden resident.

Julie is an advocate for North Ogden residents, helping them make a difference and be heard. Julie's goal is to help build the North Ogden community into a symbiotic balance of residential and commercial properties that live and work together in harmony.
